

Join us today!

Please join our roster of corporate contributors and support excellence in arts and education at Ohio State's Wexner Center for the Arts.

See the enclosed inserts for details.

Higher education at public universities such as Ohio State opens the gateway to the future for thousands of students each year. The Wexner Center for the Arts strives to enhance those students' educational experiences by providing a hub for free expression, independent thinking, and vital interactions among global cultures and academic disciplines in the arts and far beyond.

Leslie H. Wexner
Chair, Wexner Center Foundation

Image credits

William Wegman, photo: Al Zanyk. Kerry James Marshall and teens, photo: Chet Hay. Funney/Strange Family Day, photo: Al Zanyk. Feist, photo: Kimberly Rottmayer. Picture the Sound. Grupo Corpo, photo: José Luiz Pederneiras. Spike Lee, photo: Kevin Fitzsimons. Wexner Center building, southwest façade and details, photo: © Brad Feinknopf. Wexner Center grid detail (cover), photo: M. Christopher Jones.

Corporate Giving Office Wexner Center for the Arts

The Ohio State University
1871 North High Street
Columbus, Ohio 43210-1393
TEL: (614) 291-9802
FAX: (614) 291-9809
E-MAIL: corporategiving@wexarts.org

WEXARTS.ORG

wexner center for the arts

Corporate Giving

A Creative Crossroads

The Ohio State University's Wexner Center for the Arts is America's only fully multidisciplinary contemporary arts center rooted in a major research university. It's a creative crossroads where artists from around the world come to develop their ideas and present their work, and where varied audiences encounter exhibitions, performances, and films that stimulate their imaginations and transform their perspectives. An integral participant in the international art world, a leading university, and a growing urban center in America's heartland, we are committed to serving all these communities while linking them together in an innovative partnership.

Corporate Giving at the Wexner Center

Generous contributions from companies like yours are essential in achieving the high standards of excellence we set for each of our endeavors. Your support helps the Wexner Center advance contemporary art in all media and shape the cultural landscape locally, nationally, and internationally.

Your support sparks creative vitality and enhances cultural opportunities and discourse in our community and far beyond.

The Wexner Center is such an asset. Nationwide is proud to partner with this distinctive organization that helps attract and retain the creative talent our business relies on, enhances the cultural climate of our city and region, and builds creative capital whose impact stretches far beyond the community we call home.

James Lyski
Executive Vice President and Chief Marketing Officer, Nationwide
Wexner Center Trustee

At the Wexner Center, my students learn that art is for everyone. The programs are exceptional: relevant, interesting, provocative.

Steve Schack
Teacher, Columbus City Schools

Artist William Wegman and Wexner Center Director Sherri Geldin greet special guests Frances Strickland, Ohio's First Lady, and Kevin Walker of American Electric Power, at a VIP opening.

Archie Griffin and his wife, Bonita, visit with film director Spike Lee, recipient of the 2008 Wexner Prize, at the prize presentation ceremony.

Audiences of all ages enjoy Funney/Strange Family Day during the William Wegman exhibition.

The award-winning Wexner Center is not only a nexus of creative life on campus, but it is also a true cultural gem. By combining the talents of internationally known artists with students, faculty, and members of the local community, the center plays a powerful role in challenging our thinking and nourishing our spirits.

E. Gordon Gee
President, The Ohio State University

E. Gordon Gee, Sherri Geldin, and Leslie H. Wexner thank the Wexner Center's generous corporate and individual members and donors at the anniversary gala.

The Wex Drive-In outdoor film series draws 600-700 people to our plaza on several occasions each summer.

Trustee Liza Kessler and patrons George Skestos and Danielle Carter enjoy one of many Wexner Center events where corporate contributors, major individual donors, and community leaders mingle and explore the arts.

