BELLE & SEBASTIAN IN COLUMBUS DEBUT AT WEXNER CENTER

The Wexner Center's fall concert series continues with a newly announced performance by critically lauded art-pop ensemble Belle & Sebastian making their Columbus debut—and their only stop in Ohio—on November 6 at 8 pm in Mershon Auditorium. Touring in support of their new CD, Dear Catastrophe Waitress, Belle & Sebastian have long been a critical and cult favorite thanks to their beguiling blend of lush pop melancholy and ornate compositions. Their appearance at Mershon promises to offer a night of stirring pop introspection. All tickets are $24 and are going fast.

New York-based Rasputina will open the show with their eerie cello-based sound. Rasputina's latest CD, The Lost & Found EP, is a reissue of an acclaimed 1999 release. The All Music Guide called it "strikingly entertaining." Thanks to its intriguing cello-drenched adaptations of classic rock songs from the likes of Led Zeppelin and Creedence Clearwater Revival, Lost & Found reinforces Rasputina's reputation as one of the more creative acts in contemporary pop.

ABOUT BELLE & SEBASTIAN

This seven-piece band's delicate, largely acoustic arrangements support poetic songcraft that often provokes comparisons to English folk icon Nick Drake, '60s cult band Love, and the wispier side of the Velvet Underground,

Formed in 1995 in Glasgow as a music school project, Belle & Sebastian released their first two records (Tiger Milk and If You're Feeling Sinister) to enormous critical acclaim. Guitarist/vocalist Stuart Murdoch's idiosyncratic approach to touring found the band performing everywhere from abandoned churches to libraries. With powerful word of mouth, Belle & Sebastian soon became a favorite in America while releases like The Boy with the Arab Strap and Fold Your Hands Child, You Walk Like a Peasant were helping to cement their reputation as masters of elegant, bittersweet pop songs.

Recently they composed the score to Tod Solondz's controversial film, Storytelling, and issued their first release for Rough Trade Records, Dear Catastrophe Waitress which was released on October 7 and produced by Trevor Horn. Already the record is receiving acclaim with the New Musical Express calling it "seductively charismatic and packed full of tunes."
