ABOUT NATALIE COLE

Daughter of the legendary Nat "King" Cole, Natalie Cole rocketed to stardom in 1975 with her debut album, Inseparable, and her #1 single, "This Will Be (An Everlasting Love)," earning her Grammy Awards for Best New Artist and Best Female R&B Vocal Performance. After a string of hit singles throughout the 1970s and 1980s, 1991 brought Unforgettable...With Love, an album of standards including the "Unforgettable" duet with her late father, which spent five weeks at #1 on the pop charts, earned six Grammy Awards (including Song, Record, and Album of the Year), and sold more than 14 million copies worldwide.

While recording 2008's Still Unforgettable (another Grammy winner), Cole was diagnosed with hepatitis C during a routine examination, having probably contracted the infection as the result of drug use many decades before. The following years saw her undergo extensive chemotherapy, dialysis, and, eventually, a kidney transplant. November 2010 brought the release of Cole's memoir, Love Brought Me Back, a story of loss and recovery, sorrow and joy, success and despair, and, finally, success again. She is releasing an album of brand new material in spring 2013.

ABOUT THE HARMONY PROJECT

The Harmony Project is a choir of over 200 voices that embraces the mission of transforming the community through service and song. It provides an opportunity for individuals of different racial backgrounds, religions, ages, political affiliations, and sexual orientations to work toward performing at an artistic level they had never imagined, and bond through the collective experience of community service. Walls are torn down and bridges are built. The result: a stronger, more inclusive community.

2013 STAR AWARD HONOREES

ANDREW THOMAS, MD, MBA, FACP

Dr. Andrew Thomas is an associate professor of clinical internal medicine at The Ohio State University College of Medicine and serves as the medical director for Ohio State University Hospital. After completing his undergraduate degree at Harvard University (1991), this Ohio native returned to his roots and completed both his medical education (1995) and residency (1998) at Ohio State. He was recruited to join the faculty and subsequently selected for the first fellowship in the Quality Enhancement Program.

During a two-year Quality Improvement Fellowship, he also completed a master's degree in business administration at Ohio State's Fisher College of Business (2000).

The mentoring of Dr. Hagop Mekhjian fostered Dr. Thomas's passion for both quality and safety in patient care. Shortly after completing his fellowship, he merged that passion with that of graduate medical education and gave leadership to that program for over a decade. Dr. Thomas is a leader in quality and patient safety initiatives at the regional and state level. He has represented Ohio State in the Central Ohio Hospital Quality Collaborative since it was first formed in 2002. He was also a founding member and past Chair of the Board of the Ohio Patient Safety Institute. Dr. Thomas has been a strong supporter of the STAR Program and his vision and contributions have been invaluable.

LEE S. SZYKOWNY, MD

Lee Szykowny graduated from Williams College and then earned her medical degree at The Ohio State University. She completed residencies there in adult and child psychiatry. Upon beginning a community practice she joined the Netcare Board and was struck by the enormity of need for mental health care in the central Ohio community and the unique demands placed on caregivers by people in crisis.

In 2004 Dr. Szykowny joined the OSU Harding Hospital Board. She attended a five-day continuing education course on Mind Body Medicine offered by Dr. Herbert Benson in 2006 and then began pursuing training in yoga as a means to help people maximize their health and functioning. She now teaches yoga at Yoga on High. The STAR Team was delighted when Dr. Szykowny joined the OSUHBH/STAR Leadership Development Board. She enthusiastically embraced both the mission and philosophy of the STAR Program, and in 2011, the Szykowny family provided initial funding for a STAR/Psychiatry Professorship. With the help of Dr. Szykowny's continuing support and leadership, the STAR Program is contributing in significant ways toward impacting both patient care and staff satisfaction at OSU Harding Behavioral Health and across the Wexner Medical Center.

ABOUT THE STAR PROGRAM

The Ohio State University Stress, Trauma, and Resilience (STAR) Program is an initiative of OSU Harding Behavioral Health and the Wexner Medical Center that improves lives by developing and delivering trauma-informed clinical services and educational programs that help those suffering the ravages of trauma and related mental illness. Serving as a catalyst for actualizing the medical center's values of compassion and empathy, the program also contributes new knowledge on stress and resilience gained through cutting-edge research. Proceeds from this year's event will support the continued expansion of trauma-informed and resilience-focused programming and clinical care at OSU Harding Hospital, the Wexner Medical Center, and across our community.

ABOUT THE WEXNER CENTER FOR THE ARTS

The Wexner Center for the Arts is Ohio State's multidisciplinary, international laboratory for the exploration and advancement of contemporary art. Through exhibitions, screenings, performances, artist residencies, and educational programs, the Wexner Center acts as a forum where established and emerging artists can test ideas and where diverse audiences can participate in cultural experiences that enhance understanding of the art of our time. But beyond all this, the Wexner Center strives to provide a creative nexus where cross-campus and town/gown collaborations can flourish, strengthen our community, and even actively influence positive social change through the arts. Proceeds from tonight's event will support our efforts to inspire the "ah-ha moments" the arts can bring to individuals of every age and background, through such efforts as the development of a new, teen-centric education space scheduled to open in 2014–15. Find out more about the Wexner Center and its programs at wexarts.org.
